

To whom it may concern:

_____ is my patient and has been diagnosed with _____ (diagnosis code _____).

Frequency of symptoms may occur as often as _____, with severity experienced as high as _____.

In an effort to conservatively manage this patient, I am prescribing the FloCare Latex Mattress with Viscoelastic Memory Foam pressure interface from FloBeds, The First Personally Engineered

Mattress. The FloCare Adjustable Latex/Memory Foam Mattress is necessary for the treatment of my patient's condition. The product promotes a self-care philosophy and is designed to help my patient by:

- Providing an adjustable firmness latex core sleep system, which promotes proper spinal alignment.
- Providing pressure relieving viscoelastic memory foam pressure interface layer, which distributes weight over a wide surface area, reducing pressure point discomforts and compromised blood circulation.
- Providing adjustable spinal positioning to further relieve pressure through mechanical adjustment.
- Decreasing the potential for spinal re-injury.
- Enhancing the effects of current treatment.
- Reducing the need for future medical therapies.

Studies have shown that stresses due to improper spinal positioning, placed on the spine while sleeping, may result in spinal damage. In my opinion, this product will help my patient achieve proper spinal positioning and is necessary for recovery. I have found no other product that provides the same patient benefits.
